BILLINGS CASE JUDGES IN CLASH AT HEARING

'ROUND 'N' 'ROUND

Sand is one of the most useful articles in the world.

* * * *

Remember the old phrase: "Little drops of water, little grains of sand—".

* * * *

Just think of the many uses for sand. You can use it for sandpaper, for cement, for roads, for gardens, for playboxes and for soap.

* * * *

Yes, sand is a wonderful thing.

* * * *

But sand is entirely out of place in one's sandwiches, salad, olives, pickles and watermelon at a Sunday outing.

* * * *

Speaking of Sunday outings:

* * * *

Don't you just love to choke the person who rides in the car with you and exclaims: "Oh, isn't this scenery just marvelous—just look!!"

* * * *

Especially does this hold true when one is piloting a heavy car, that takes up a good two-thirds of a narrow road, around a close curve on a mountain road.

* * * *

Mountain driving is necessarily slow—but some drivers are too cautious and as a result accidents may happen.

* * * *

Sunday, while driving from San Rafael to Bolinas over a narrow mountain road that has a curve every 15 feeet (or less) a new model car led a parade.

* * * *

And the driver of the leading car was too cautious. At times he drove five miles an hour on level stretches of road that could be negotiated at a slightly higher speed.

* * * *

As a result the drivers behind him became impatient and attempted to pass him on the narrow road.

* * * *

Slowly the line of cars passed him, and an accident was threatened at any minute.

* * * *

There is one good part of mountain driving—that is:

* * * *

After the worst part of the trip is over and you are down on the level road.

CEMENT DUST PLEA FAILS

MARTINEZ, Aug. 4.—Representatives of landowners in the Clayton Valley vicinity, appeared before the board of supervisors today to plead that action be taken to abate what they characterized as the cement dust nuisance from the Cowell Lime and Cement company's plant, only to find there was no remedy for them.

District Attorney A. B. Tinning, called into the discussion by the supervisors, informed the representatives that in 1914 the late Superior Judge R. H. Latimer ruled that the plant did not constitute a public menace in a suit brought by the county.

The ranchers are protesting against the dust that forms over the fruit, alleging that it reduces the price paid by the markets.

BIRTH REPORT

Birth of a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. Gustave W. Gordon, 4400 Redwood avenue, on July 28, has been recorded with the city health department. The new addition to the family has been named Loretta Marie.

FOUR SAVED FROM CAVE

NOGALES, Ariz., Aug. 5—UP—Four Arizona youths, lost for more than 26 hours in the chasms of Crystal Cave, a rendezvous for warlike Apache Indians in the early days, were brought to safety late today.

Since early Sunday, M. E. Hughey, 20, of Yuma, and David Coughanour, 20, Clay Coughanour, 17, and Paul MacGregorn, 18, all of Nogales, had groped through the treacherous passageways of the former Indian hangout seeking the entrance of the cave.

Weary from tramping through the three-mile deep cavern, the four were found huddled in a corner of one of the 15 chambers by a party of soldiers, Boy Scouts and veteran peace officers who had searched the cave of bottomless pits since daybreak.

"We were getting along fine until our candles gave out," Hughey declared. "We became frightened when we realized we were lost."

During the search much anxiety for the boys' safety was held. It was in this cave that in the early days of Arizona, a band of 100 Apache Indians once sought safety after attacking the city of Tucson. No trace ever was found of them.

Search for the missing youths was started when Hughey and David Coughanour failed to report at the Arizona citizens military training camp near here. Both were members of the 1927 and 1928 C. M. T. C., Arizona rifle team, and took part at the Camp Perry, Ohio, matches. They were to have practiced this morning for places on the 193 0team.

The trail of the youths led to the cave entrance, where the boys' automobile and some clothing were found.

OCEAN FLIER IN HOSPITAL

AMSTERDAM, Holland, Aug. 4.—UP—Wing Commander Kingsford-Smith, famous for his exploits with his airplane, the Southern Cross, was operated on for appendicitis today.

The operation was performed at the town of Middleburg, Holland. The doctor ordered the Australian flier to take a long rest.

Kingsford-Smith recently commanded the flight of the Southern Cross from England to New York. He first gained international fame when he flew the same airplane from California over the Pacific to Australia in 1928.

He returned to Europe on a steamship after his recent trans-Atlantic flight, intending to fly to Australia, to be married next month.

Insurance Bids Given To Council

Five bids were received by the city council last night for furnishing public liability compensation and fire insurance on city property.

The bids were referred to City Manager J. A. McVittie and City Attorney T. M. Carlson for one week.

City Manager To Attend Conclave

The international convention of city managers will be held at the Palace hotel in San Francisco, from September 24 to 27.

City Manager J. A. McVittie was appointed as the delegate to represent the city of Richmond.

FARMS HIT BY WATER FAMINE

CHICAGO, Aug. 5—UP— Heat and drought reached the porportions of an economic disaster in the central states tonight.

Crops were ruined, water supplies depleted, livestock killed and temperatures which have remained near the 100 mark for weeks on end are credited with the death of some 200 persons and damage to crops is estimated at $400,000,0000.

Deaths in August already have mounted to three score. The brassy sun hourly is crumpling hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of growing plants.

Crops Suffer

Whole counties of wheat and corn in the bread basket of the United States were baked brown. Corn suffered so severely that in many cases it sold for higher prices than did wheat on the nation's grain marts.

So severe was the dry spell in southern Illinois and eastern Missouri that scores of farmers could find no water for their suffering livestock. Hundreds of cattle were slaughtered. Other farmers hauled water for miles by automobile.

Bee-keepers were even hard hit. Their buzzing charges, unable to find blossoms, remained in their hives and consumed the honey which had been stored for winter.

Water Famine

Residents were ordered to quit watering their lawns in Chevy Chase, Md., those whose grass plots looked green were regarded as scofflaws.

Authorities asked housewives not to do their washing today in C burg, Pa., because the city's water supply was near exhaustion.

Cotton crops in Texas and Oklahoma were in worse condition than for years. A plague of grasshoppers, reported advancing on the border from the state of Chihuahua, Mexico, complicated the situation

Many Grasshoppers

Sweltering travelers from the south said the insects were in such a thick cloud that they obscured the sun, made telegraph lines look like thick ropes and impeded railroad travel by massing on the rails so that engine wheels could not obtain traction.

The advance guard of the hoppers already had arrived in El Paso, Tex., where government crop experts were making plans to check them.

ELECTION MAIL WILL BE SENT

MARTINEZ, Aug. 4.—According to an announcement by County Clerk J. H. Wells today, two and a half tons of reading material for Contra Costa county voters will soon be in the mails.

Wells is preparing to place in the mails 28,000 copies of the pamphlet on "Information Concerning Candidates" at the August primary election.

Belt Railway Files Report

Under the terms of its franchise, the Richmond Belt railway made its annual report to the city council last night regarding revenues for the past twelve months.

The company reported that no revenues had accrued from the operation of the wharf. The report was ordered filed.

Speeding Car Turns Over During Chase

A youth who gave his name as Richard Reno, escaped without injury early this morning when his machine turned over during a chase down San Pablo avenue. According to El Cerrito police, Traffic Officer Floyd Gilbert saw the youth traveling at a high rate of speed down San Pablo avenue. The officer gave chase. A chase ensued, only to be halted when Reno's car turned over near Tank Farm hill, when the driver attempted to turn. The youth was taken to the Abbot Emergency hospital for treatment. He was later removed to the El Cerrito city jail where he is being held for investigation.

G. N. ROOKER QUITS CITY PLAN BOARD

George N. Rooker, former manager of the P. G. & E. company who is leaving Richmond to accept a position in the northwest, last night tended his resignation as a member of the city planning commission to the city council.

The resignation was accepted with regrets, and Rooker was given a vote of thanks for the work he has done as a member of the commission.

FISHERMEN ON STRIKE

PITTSBURG, Aug. 4.—Refusing to accept an offer of six cents a pound for salmon, offered by buyer's representatives, 500 fishermen from Vallejo to Sacramento were idle today, awaiting the result of conferences between their representatives and those of purchasing firms in San Francisco.

They are willing to accept an offer of 10 cents a pound for bass but balk at the pro-offered six cents for salmon.

Lions Club To Hear W. Hanlon

J. O. Ford, chairman of today's meeting of the Richmond Lions club, has arranged for W. H. Hanlon, county superintendent of schools, to be the speaker at the luncheon which will be held in the Hotel Carquinez.

First vice-president M. E. Hazelton, will preside at the meeting.

Check Passer Returned Here

Richmond Police Inspector George Bengley yesterday returned Andrew Richardson from Stockton to face charges of passing fictitious checks, preferred by a number of local merchants, according to police reports.

Richardson was held by Police in Stockton on a warrant issued by the local department, and will appear before Justice of the Peace Arthur Alstrom.

According to police reports a man who gave his name as James E. Booth has been operating with Richardson ,who was sent to San Quentin from Stockton for allegedly passing fictitious checks there. Richardson will stand trial in Richmond.

JUSTICES IN BATTLE ON QUIZZING OF MRS. SMITH

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5—UP—Completely exhausted after five hours' tilt with "the world's most difficult witness," justices of the California supreme court late today adjourned the Mooney-Billings hearing until tomorrow.

The cessation was called after four of the seven justices had joined attorneys in an effort to establish the truth or falsity of the testimony of Estelle Smith, called the witness most responsible for Warren Billings' imprisonment on charges of perpetrating the Preparedness Day bombing of 1916 in San Francisco in which ten persons lost their lives.

Because she also half-identified Tom and Rena Mooney as companions of Billings, and because the two men's identities are so tangled in the stories of all witnesses that an impeachment or vindication of any witnesses would vitally affect both, she has come to be an enormously important figure in the Mooney cause as well.

Difficult Witness

Dubbed "the world's most difficult witness' by Edwin V. McKenzie, Billings' Attorney, the plump little woman lived up to her label today.

Though crowded by McKenzie's sharp cross-examination into many equivocations and into several variously important discrepancies, she nevertheless held her own for the most part, replying in close places upon temper she flared out several times at McKenzie, one time flatly refusing to go further unless his questions changed the tenor.

At another time, the oblique nature of her replies drew a rebuke from Associate Justice Preston. A moment later, however, he objected to McKenzie's framing of a question and denounced it as "unfair";

28 PROTESTS MADE ON PLAN

The protests filed with the city council last night by 28 property owners against the installation of electroliers on Tenth street, from Ripley to Cutting, was sustained.

The protestants south of the Santa Fe track represented 1570 feet of frontage, and north of the track represented 217.5 of frontage.

Some of the protestants stated that they thought Tenth street, should be widened and paved before electroliers were installed.

Councilman W. W. Scott said that in view of the protests, and the fact that he agreed with them in that the street should be widened and paved before any other improvement was made, he moved that the protests be sustained.

The motion was seconded by Councilman A. L. Paulsen, and adopted by the unanimous vote of the members.

The action of the council means that the electrolier system plan will not go forward at this time. When action is to be started for the widening and paving of Tenth street was not stated.

Those who signed the protests were: A. N. Codeglia, W. T. Helms, Richmond Syndicate, R. H. Curry, George T. Curry, Marie and Margaret Cassasa, A. J. Weber, C. F. Siemsen, F. D. Butts, H. Cooper, Louisa A. Cobden, A. J. Papadakis, Bert Merritt, F. L. Botts, Mrs. H. F. Scott, C. P. Kingwell, H. P. Lauritzen, McEwen Bros., W. H. Unthank, S. M. SPECIAL MAST FOR YACHT RACER

"The yachtsman and the aviator" says Anthony Kastleic, Goodyear dealer, Civic Tire and Battery Co., "have in common the necessity of pitting their knowledge and skill against the wind in order to reach a given destination, but this summer marks the first time the experience of acronautical engineers has been brought into play to solve a yachting problem."

The problem is one which aviation has long had to combat—that of reducing weight without sacrificing strength—and as a result of this application of acronautical experience, the Thorne Syndicate yacht "Whirlwind" which will compete for the honor of defending the American cup against Sir Thomas Lipton's latest "Shamrock" will have a mast stronger than the ordinary wooden equipment, but with a reduction of between 1300 and 1400 pounds in weight.

Paul Hammond, of the Thorne Syndicate, who placed the order for the "Whirlwind" with Francis Hereshoff, famous yacht designer, conceived the idea of replacing the conventional wooden mast with a metal mast, believing that experienced gained in aircraft design would result in a lighter and stronger mast. Such a mast would be superior to a wooden one in event of breakage as it would only buckle, while a wooden mast will splinter, with attendant danger to the crew.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh advised Hammond that the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corp., in Akron, could design and construct a metal mast, and Goodyear-Zeppelin engineers, under direction of Dr. Karl Arnstein, builder of more than 70 Zeppelins, immediately went to work.

The mast, made of an especially strong aluminum alloy, was modeled after Herreshoff's design of a wooden mast ,in order that his wide experience as a designer might be utilized, and also that the same type of fittings and accessories as for the wooden mast might be used. The lower part of the new mast consists of two semi-curcular cylinders connected by flat side plates while the upper part on account of tapering, consists of two semi-circular conical parts, connected by tapered flat sheets.

In order to utilize the full strength of the metal in event of buckling, the two flat sides of the mast were connected by a truss-like structure which very noticeably increased the rigidity of the mast. The circular sections were reinforced by bulkheads.

To insure against corrosion, aluminum clad sheets were used, all parts were subjected to anodic treatment and painted with aluminum pigmented varnish, thus being given the best protection known at the present time.

Kastelic points out that remarkably rapid work was done on the mast ,the completed structure being ready for shipping within 60 days after the design was begun. The mast, which is 165 feet in length, was recently transported to the City Island shipyard, New York, where Goodyear-Zeppelin workmen made the final assembly.

Robins Beaten By Giants As Athletics Win

By United Press

National League

Only two games were played in the National league, the league leading Robins losing ground in the pennant race by dropping a 4-0 decision to the New York Giants, and the Boston Braves nosing out the Phillies, 3 to 2. Fred Fitsimmons won his 12th victory of the season, holding the Robins to six hits.

Bruce Cunningham pitched and batted the Braves to victory. He limited the hard-hitting Phillies to eight hits and drove in two of his team's three runs.

American League

The Philadelphia Athletics added half a game to their American League lead by winning from the Boston Red Sox Monday, 13-4.

Philadelphia now leads Washington by 8 games. The Senators were idle today because of the funeral of Mrs. Walter Johnson, wife of the Washington leader.

Charlie Gehringer's home run in the twelfth inning with the bases filled gave Detroit a 7 to 3 victory over the Chicago White Sox. Vic Sorrell held the White Sox to six hits, outpitching Ted Lyons, who was trying for his 18th victory of the season.

Wesley Ferrell won his 18th game of the season, Cleveland scoring three runs in the ninth to beat the St. Louis Browns, 5-2.

ODD FELLOWS 9 IN WIN OVER OAKLANDERS

Continuing their winning streak the Richmond Odd Fellow baseball team took the St. Francis club of Oakland into camp Sunday by a score of 14 to 0.

The stellar pitching of Johnny Babich and the heavy hitting of the local club was responsible for the overwhelming score. Babich allowed only three hits and fanned 10 batters.

ALAMEDA ELKS NINE BEATS LOCALS

Scoring three runs in a ninth inning rally, the Alameda Elks baseball team Sunday defeated the Richmond aggregation by a score of 6 to 3.

The Richmond Bills, after tagging the winners throughout the game, tied it up in the eighth, but the Island City clubmen, flashing a brilliant display of hitting in the ninth forged to the head, the locals being unable to overcome the lead.

The Alameda team consistently outhit the locals, registering 15 hits against Richmond's 7. Errors were plentiful during the game, Alameda muffing four chances, and Richmond six.

Minor Loops To Answer Draft Plan

CHICAGO, Aug. 5—UP— The "Big Three" of minor league baseball—the American Association, the Pacific Coast League and International Leagues—meet here tomorrow to frame their answer to the recent Major League draft ultimatum.

The three AA leagues have been in the fight against the universal draft and are the organization which would be most seriously affected by the major leagues threat to sever all relations with minor leagues refusing to accept the universal draft.

Officials of the Pacific Coast and International league already have voted to defy the major leagues and it is expected that the American association will take similar action at tomorrow's meeting.

The three AA leagues always have fought classification as "minor" leagues and the draft is expected to bring their fight for recognition as major leagues into the open. It is expected that they will form a triple entente to fight the universal draft and radical members of the group may submit plans for a complete realignment of organized baseball the three AA leagues uniting to form an independent third big league with its own minor leagues for development of players.

JOHNSON LEAVES

Clarence W. Johnson, of Richmond, left recently for a two weeks hunting trip in the Humboldt county mountains.

El Cerrito Fire Official Home From Deer Hunt

Joseph De Martini, assistant fire chief of El Cerrito, has been forced to cut his outing in the mountain from a week to two days, because of his excellent shooting. Martini intended to stay in the mountains for a week in quest of the elusive deer, but after two days he had bagged two deer, and is now contemplating spending the remainder of his vacation on the seashore.

The bucks were both bagged near Bartlett Springs in Lake county, one weighing 115 pounds, and the other 120 pounds. Both were two pointers.

Miller Hunting Party Bags More Deer On Outing

Postmaster John Miller who bagged the first deer of the season among Richmond men, has set a good example to other members of his party, two of whom have killed two more deer over the week-end.

Clarence Miller, 468 Eighth street brought down his buck Saturday night and Gilbert Miller of El Cerrito got his deer Sunday, both being collected in the Livermore hills where Miller shot his.

The hunting party in the Livermore hills included John A. Miller, Gilbert Miller, Clarence Miller, Archie Higgins, Frank Wilson and Harry Bottger. Part of the group are continuing to hunt for a few days.

C. R. BLAKES RETURN FROM ALASKA TRIP

Returning from a delightful trip to Alaska, City Commissioner of Health Dr. C. R. Blake and Mrs. Blake are being welcomed home by their many friends.

They left two weeks ago on the Cascade Limited from Richmond transferring at Seattle to the S. S. Princess Louise, on which they continued their trip into scenic Alaska.

Among the many wonders of the northland they viewed the aurora borealis and visited several of the great galciers for which the country is noted.

Delightful trips were made to Alert Bay and to Prince Rupert and from Wrangell Island and on to Seagway and Ketchikan.

En route to Lake Atlin they passed along the old Klondike trail where many relics of the gold rush may yet be seen. In interior Alaska a stop at White Horse was made. After visiting in Juneau, the capital, they viewed another of the great glaciers.

The return trip was made on the Shasta Limited, concluding a delightful vacation.

City Solicitor Wins But Pays

BUCYRUS, Ohio,—UP—City Solicitor C. F. Schaber won a test case in state supreme court which held property owners liable for delinquent municipal utility bills.

Arriving home from the capital Schaber was met by Service Director Clarence Kober. Said Kober:

"I see you won that suit for the city. Congratulations."

"Yes, the city can collect now," replied Schaber.

And then Schaber was given an opportunity to taste the bitter sweet of victory. Continued Kober:

"Fine. I have a bill against you for $3.40 which one of your tenants failed to pay."

"I didn't know that," said the legal advisor somewhat surprised, but give me the bill. "I suppose I'll have to pay it."

Justice, Barefoot Nabs Looters

SNYDER'S LAKE, N. Y.—UP—Justice of the Peace Lynd Cox is not so peacefu', two youths discovered when they attempted to make off with his Sunday dinner. The judge, hearing noises on his back porch, discovered Thomas Campbell and William Donald of Troy, looting his larder. They fled and Cox, in bare feet, gave chase. Even after he stepped on a barbed wire and cut his toe, the judge got his men and arraigned them before a fellow justice of the peace who fined each of the culprits $15.

NO EXCUSE FOR A "SPLITTING HEAD"

There's no need for an aching head to spoil your day. At the first warning throb take Dillard's Aspergum. Chew it a few minutes. Almost before you realize it, you have chewed the pain away. It's as simple as that—no trouble, and harmless—for Dillard's Aspergum is the new and easier way to take aspirin.

Dillard's Aspergum is the finest aspirin in delicious chewing gum form. You can take it any time—any place. You need no water to gulp it down. There is no unpleasant taste—no choking.

Because you chew Dillard's Aspergum the aspirin mixes thoroughly with the saliva so that all its soothing qualities are effective quickly, continuously.

Keep a package of Aspergum on hand for quick, harmless relief from the pain of headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, etc. It helps break up a cold, and soothes irritated throats, even such severe cases as follow tonsil operations. If your druggist does not have Dillard's Aspergum, send for free sample to Health Products Corporation, Dept. A, 113 North 13th Street, Newark, N. J.

Man Jailed By Rooster

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio—UP— Had "Primo" been an illiterate rooster, Frank Miller, 39, might be free instead of confined to a cell in Mahoning county jail. But having had an education "Primo" still retains his head and his position of rank among the fowls of W. I. Shively.

The bird's ownership was the subject of recent dispute between Miller and Shively who took his contentions to court. Miller had the rooster and Shively, only the claim. The court was nonplussed in the absence of witnesses to the alleged theft.

Finally, Deputy Sheriff Sorvillo subpoened the bird. "Primo" perched himself erectly on the arm of a court chair, peering for a moment at the defendant. Then he looked at the plaintiff.

"Primo! Primo!" called out Deputy Sorvillo.

"Primo" launched himself at the feet of Shivley, flapped his wings and crowed lustily.

"I'll plead guilty," weakly said Miller.

"Ninety days," said the judge.

"Cock-a-doodle-doo," said "Primo."

SUBMARINE IS SETTING FOR FILM

"Despite popular impressions to the contrary, the submarine service is not a particularly dangerous one" says James K. McGuinness ,associate producer for Fox Movietone who was in charge of production on 'Men Without Women' John Ford's unusual talkie of the undersea boat.

"Although living conditions aboard submarines are not as pleasant as on the larger surface ships, the vessels themselves are safer in many respects than the bigger craft," McGuinness states. "Considering the many hundreds of thousands of miles American submersibles have cruised in every sort of weather, such accidents as the sinking of the 'F-4' the 'S-51' and 'S-4' have been surprisingly rare. These accidents, too, have been due to the carelessness of merchant steamer officers far more than to any negligence of the submarine's personnel.

"A storm that would swamp a surface ship has no effect on an undersea boat, which can submerge and proceed without difficulty until the weather moderates. Moreover, such disasters as these just mentioned will have little chance of happening again, thanks to the recent invention of the Momsen 'lung'. This device, invented by Lieutenant C. B. Momsen of the navy ,allows the crew of a submarine that has been sent to the bottom, to be "shot" to the surface with comparative safety. Enough of these 'lungs' for each member of the crew are now carried in every compartment of a sub so that in case of accident the survivors may be immediately rescued.

"In 'Men Without Women,' we have incorporated this invention into the story, and it is by means of these 'lungs' that the screen 'crew' is saved ,their use being graphically illustrated."

"Men Without Women," which possesses many novel and absorbing features will be the chief attraction at the Fox-California theater beginning today. Kenneth MacKenna and Frank Albertson have the leading roles ,with a supporting cast that includes such film celebrities as Farrell Macdonald, Walter McGrail, Paul Page, Stuart Edwin, Warren Hymer, George LeGuere, Ben Hendricks, Jr., and Roy Stuart.

Ford and McGuinness collaborated in writing this notable story which the former directed with the same dramatic force that marked his earlier "Black Watch" and "Four Sons," the latter film having recently won the Photoplay Medal as the finest picture of 1928. The screen play and dialog on the new production was written by Dudley Nichols, while Schuyler Grey was in charge of the staff of naval officers and submarine experts who handled the technical details of filming.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Richmond Public Library, Mrs. W. B. Trull was elected president to replace the late George B. Fredenberg.

New Books

Among the 40 new books which are on the shelves this week there are many of outstanding interest. The Adams family, the story of one of America's most distinguished families, will probably be one of the most read books of the year. Uncle Sam's Camels is a dairy account of the attempt made in 1858, to introduce camels into the United States. It is an interesting page in the early history of the southwest and of California. Another interesting but not well known page in our history will be found in Johnson of the Mohawks, which is the biography of Sir William Johnson, who came to the colonies in 1738 as an Irish immigrant and who goes down in history as a knight, a Mohawk war chief and American soldier and empire builder.

Stunt Flying by Duncan is for the student pilot and will interest all of the "air-minded" who want to get some idea of how it's done. King Mob is a very readable study of the present-day American mind Greece Today, written by Eliot Mears of Stanford University, offers the fascinating spectacle of political, social and economic friends and events in Greece, the aftermath of her reception of 1,500,000 refugees.

Paganini of Genoa is a spirited biography of the famous violinist. The Life Story of Birds by Eric Daglish is for the nature lover who wants more facts about the private life of his feathered friends. The illustrations of the book, wood cuts by the author, make it a collector's item. Basic Principles of Concrete Making gives in 100 pages the results of modern laboratory tests and observations.

Two Jailed On Charges Of Annoying Girls

Police Judge A. C. Thompson of El Cerrito yesterday fined John Gilbert, 21, and Emil Bricbeque 21, both of Oakland, $10 each and sentenced both youths to serve 10 days in the county jail, when they appeared on technical charges of disturbing the peace.

According to police reports the boys were arrested by Officer Artheur Peralta while attempting to force two minor El Cerrito girls to enter their car.

MEXICAN FLIER PLANS TOKIO HOP

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Aug. 4.—UP—Albert Calsadias, Mexican aviator, announced here today that he planned a Mexico to Tokio non-stop flight sometime in September.

Vere Scheuneman, Oceanside, Calif., flier, will be co-pilot, it was said.

Calsadias plans to refuel over the Hawaiian Islands after taking off from a three-mile runway near Tiajuana.

The flier said that the Mexican Institute of Aviation, the Mexican press and students of Mexico were backing the project.

The Lockheed plant at Burbank said that Calsadias had been negotiating with the factory for a plane but that no order had been placed at Burbank as yet.

Radio Gives Crash Story

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—UP—Two reporters here recently had the thrill that comes once in a life time when they covered a story over a 10,000 mile radio telephone hook up.

The reporters accompanied Miss Elinor Smith, youthful aviatrix, to the Sacandaga radio station of the General Electric company, where Miss Smith was to have a conversation with Miss Amy Johnson, premier Australian ladybird, who was to have been at Sydney, Australia. Announcer Farmer at Sydney informed the waiting group that Miss Johnson had crashed and suffered a mild nervous shock, so was unable to be at the "mike." The reporters got their details, the first news of the accident in this country, and wrote the story.

PAINFUL CORNS
Loosen—Lift Out

A little known Japanese herb, the discovery of an eminent German scientist (Dr. Stickel) instantly soothes the corn, callous or wart, then loosens it so that shortly you can lift it right out. This new discovery called "Corn Fly" excites the white blood corpuscles to action and granulates the corn at its root so that it drops out and leaves no trace of scar or soreness.

You will also find "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" a boon for sore, tired or perspiring feet.

"Corn Fly" for corns, 35c, "Corn Fly Foot Bath Powder" 25c, and "Corn Fly Bunion Remedy" 50c, (all three—$1.10 value—for $1.00), are sold under a positive money-back guarantee by Hi-Gene Co., Newark, N. J., or local druggist.

U. S. Soviet War Seen By Communist

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5—UP—Forecasting a possible war between Soviet Russia and the United States over "Imperialistic interference in China" Carl Sklar, communist leader, spoke for two hours today in the courtroom where he and 15 other communists are on trial for a demonstration here last February.

Sklar acted as his own attorney. He declared that in a few years China will be wholly communistic and described the organization of communists among residents of Los Angeles and the Imperial Valley.

Sklar's speech followed one by Attorney Leo Gallagher for the communists said it was possible that the United States will become a Soviet Republic within the present generation.

Under the "New Republic" the name of Los Angeles may be changed to the City of Sklar, after the communist leader, or city of Spector, after Frank Spector, another prominent communist, Gallagher said.

Sklar was recently convicted of disturbances in the Imperial Valley and must go to San Quentin prison for a long term after his present trial.

L. A. WOMAN SETS SPEED MARK

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—UP—Florence Lowe Barnes, prominent society aviator, broke the women's speed record today when she flew her powerful airplane for an average of 196.16 miles per hour over a measured mile course.

Mrs. Barnes surpassed the record of 184.5 miles per hour made here a year ago by Amelia Earheart, trans-Atlantic flier.

The highest speed reached by Mrs. Barnes on any of the four laps was 197.26 miles per hour.

She flew her plane 164 feet from the ground after starting with a 1500 foot power dive. The test was timed by Joe Nikrent, official of the National Aeronautical association.

Man Saves Tots, Wife In Fire

BERKELEY, Aug 5—UP—A Berkeley man today rescued his wife and two months old baby from their flaming home, just before the walls collapsed. A. T. Hubbard awoke and smelled smoke. He found that flames barred his way to his baby's room, so he ran outside, placed a ladder against the window and climbed up and got the baby. Then he rescued his wife, unconscious from smoke, in the same manner. Two minutes later the house was a mass of flaming wreckage.

PINOLE MAN KILLS SELF

Awaiting word from relatives, funeral services for the late Austin E. Fuller, 64, of Pinole, who committed suicide Sunday, are pending in the hands of the Wilson and Kratzer chapel here.

Fuller, a telegraph operator, is believed by police to have taken his own life after failing to secure work, and because of illness. His body was found by James Silva, proprietor of a Pinole hotel, who also found a letter asking that relatives in the east be notified.

Fuller had shot himself through the head.

According to Pinole residents, Fuller has been unable to obtain work during the past six months, and has been suffering from a chronic illness. He was unmarried and is believed to have left only a few relatives in the east.

MESSAGE

I wrote in wide, deep letters on the sand:
"I love you so!"
And drew my hungry heart, clasped in your hand
To ease its throe.

A still tide crept upon the shining words,
Obliterating each;
Dim shadows, resolute as homing birds,
Dulled the white beach.

The swift tide, with my message at its heart,
Swept space away.
Passed bounds where a tomorrow drifts apart
From yesterday.

The sure tide, with my message on its crest
Reached the last mile,
And gave it over to immortal rest
Within your smile!

WOMEN DOCTORS MAKE GOOD

OTHER things being equal—such things as skill and availability—it always has seemed to us that many women on many intimate occasions must prefer a woman physician, and that children, accustomed to feminine care, must nearly always prefer one. Also, we have been privileged to observe the work of such skilful and devoted New York medical women as Dr. Mary Halton and Dr. Mary Reeser, and the fashion in which they temper science with sympathy—never with sentimentality—has filled us with admiration for the achievement of women in this important field.

Therefore, we have been examining, with interest and pride in which we think many others of our sex must share, the newly published report of the New York hospital completely in the hands of women physicians—the New York Infirmary for Women and Children.

It was founded seventy-six years ago by Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell, the first woman to take a medical degree in modern times. Two ideas led to its inception. One was the age-long pity women have always felt for the weak, poor or suffering. The other was a new idea—that women would render better service in their natural field, the conservation of human life, if their pity were scientifically trained and directed.

"When pain and anguish wring the brow,
A ministering angel, thou!"

—so Sir Walter Scott sang of women.

"Very nice," one can imagine that practical pioneer, Dr. Blackwell, commenting briskly, "but it would be a good idea for even a ministering angel to know the difference between the early stages of whooping-cough and diphtheria, and to be trained scientifically in reducing the hazards of motherhood."

APPROPRIATELY enough, the women physicians of the New York Infirmary for Women and Children have applied themselves with success to the problem of bringing down the disgracefully high maternity mortality rate among American women. It is a medical problem to which the thoughtful and sympathetic woman doctor must feel especially bound to devote her best efforts. How well she has worked it out, in the hospital exclusively under her direction, may be seen from the following statistics:

The average maternal death rate in Greater New York is 5.4 in every 1,000.

In the Infirmary it was 3.7 per 1,000 this year, or 31 per cent. better than for the city at large.

The average number of stillbirths per 1,000 in New York is 45.7.

In the Infirmary the rate is 18.8 or 59 per cent. less than in this community.

But all the work of this woman-run institution has always been looked upon by the public authorities as of conspicuous excellence. It is a triple A grade hospital.

AS AN indication of what has always been its progressive program, the new and intelligent medical movement for the prevention of disease was actually foreshadowed in 1854, when Dr. Elizabeth Blackwell employed a woman as sanitary inspector for the neighboring tenements—years before the city undertook such inspection. At present, a staff member of the Infirmary directs a regular clinic of Preventive Therapy.

Other up-to-date and sensible pieces of work organized by these women physicians are the Children's Behavior Clinic, flanked by a neighborhood health service for children from birth to adolescence, and a psychiatric clinic for older people.

And remember, the New York Infirmary for Women and Children is "the woman of it" in medicine, is staffed and managed entirely by women physicians, with trained women specialists holding all the important posts. Here women doctors found a place to develop and increase their skill, when all other hospitals excluded them on account of their sex. Here they have made themselves and their institution a power for sympathetic, scientific service to other women and to little children. What "modern women" have better justified themselves than the women doctors?

A DISH A DAY

Copyright by Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930

Letters from our readers in summer camps and far-away cottages bring requests for desserts. "Don't speak blithely about fresh berries and peaches," Julia Wilcox, who is up on the shore of Lake George, pleads. "We have to send thirty miles for supplies, and as we are dependent on the kindness of neighbors who have a car, we can't ask them to run a daily express for us. We must depend on staples and canned foods. What can we have for dessert? We are modern to the extent of having a mechanical ice box if that is any help to you."

KAREN HOLLIS

That last-minute mention of the mechanical refrigerator makes it all absurdly simple, and there are many delightful desserts that can be concocted with the help of that invaluable kitchen aid. Julia isn't really roughing it, you see; she is living among all the comforts of an advanced civilization.

Here is a dessert that I am sure will please her and you. If you haven't a mechanical refrigerator but have a generous supply of ice you can pack this dessert in an airtight container and submerge it in ice and salt, and the effect will be the same.

This recipe was demonstrated one afternoon last week by the Home Making Centre in the Grand Central Palace by Ruth Ida Bean, nutrition expert of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs. I wish that you might all have watched her, for her fingers are deft as a magician's. It took her only about eight minutes to prepare the dish and store it in the refrigerator, to be served the next day.

FRENCH ICE-BOX CAKE

2 squares unsweetened chocolate
1 1-3 cups sweetened condensed milk
½ cup water
1 package vanilla wafers (about ½ pound)

Melt the chocolate in a double boiler. Add the condensed milk slowly, stirring all the time. Cook for five minutes, when the mixture will be quite thick. Add the water and stir well. Line a long, narrow mold with waxed paper and pour a thin layer of the chocolate mixture in the bottom of the mold. On top of this place a layer of vanilla wafers, then a layer of chocolate. Alternate in this way until the chocolate is all used and cover with a layer of wafers. Chill in ice box for twenty-four hours or pack in ice and salt for eight hours. Turn out on a small platter, remove the paper carefully, cut in slices and serve plain.

Possibilities in Impossible Rooms

By Alma Zaiss

Dear Miss Zaiss:

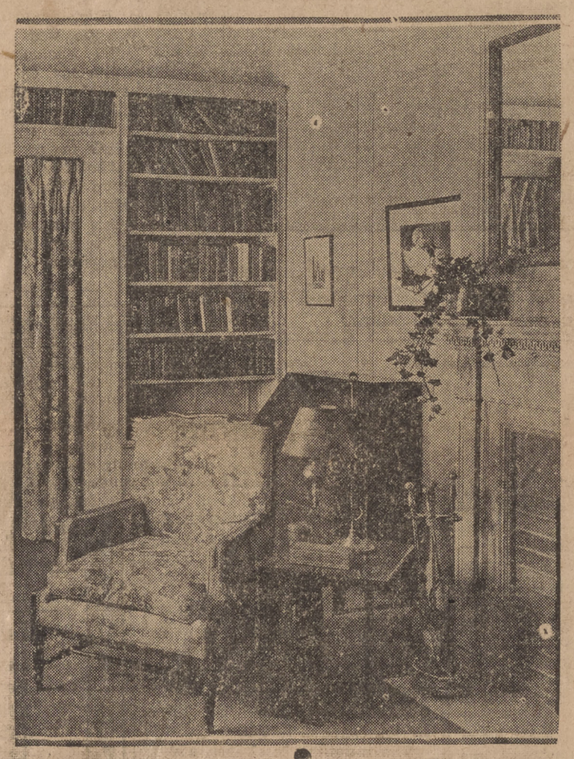
I wish you would help me in arranging the furniture in my living room; also with the color scheme. I particularly want it comfortable and bright.

I am having a partition removed and find that I have very little wall space. I must find a place for a small upright piano 4 feet 9 inches long. My other furniture consists of two cozy chairs; two straight chairs, upholstered seats; small gateleg table; radio—small low cabinet; very low, small table which I have used in the corner by the stairs and chimney (the stairs are open as far as the chimney). Also I have two bridge lamps, a bookcase and my one interesting piece of furniture, an old-fashioned secretary about 2½ feet wide and high. Also two Persian rugs, small with predominating color brown and some red and blue.

A little later I want a davenport and perhaps a small table or two and more lamps. Please suggest something for curtains and slip-covers or upholstering, as I must have my chairs done over. One big chair has at present a cretonne with a sort of Chinese red and blue, tan background. I have plain marquisette curtains at present, but would like some cheerful overdrapes.

The dining room is furnished with odd pieces, a wide drop leaf table, old-fashioned dresser and plain chairs, all painted black, trimmed with Chinese red. Curtains same as living room. Thank you very much.

(MRS.) R. F. J.



A READING CORNER AS INVITING AS THIS CAN BE ESTABLISHED IN MRS. J.'s ROOM.

Architecural Irregularities May Be Offset by Good Arrangement

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930.

ONE of the most troublesome problems that can come to the homemaker is that which calls for a good arrangement of large pieces in rooms having little or no wall space.

How to make interesting groupings with no stable background behind them; what to do with the upright piano when no wall wants to give it room; where to place sofa and secretary when walls are all windows and doors—these points become puzzles that it seems impossible to unravel, chiefly because we will not let the imagination suggest a treatment that departs from the conventional scheme of things.

Mrs. J's letter gives a good foundation for the discussion of our topic which should reach much further than the individual problem. For readers who are about to furnish anew or to complete schemes for rooms afflicted with similar handicaps should find in it a number of helpful suggestions and through them come to see good possibilities in rooms that have thus far seemed to prohibit an interesting arrangement.

In spite of its irregularities, Mrs. J. really has a lovely room. The large fireplace and many windows must make it extremely cheerful. When the partition comes down and the two sections become one large room, she should just forget the lack of wall space and experiment in arrangement until a satisfying result has been found.

The plan outlined by the diagram gives one good disposition of furniture which we believe will please her. In this room there is no ideal place for the upright piano. It would fit in the niche to the left of the chimney wall, but in that position would spoil the prettiest part of the room. For upright pianos are far from decorative. So we have chosen a less conspicuous place for it, assuming that the small window opposite the staircase is high enough to permit the piano to stand against that wall. Then a screen placed as indicated on the diagram may be used to break the long straight line from door to staircase and prevent the effect of many pieces of furniture in a row.

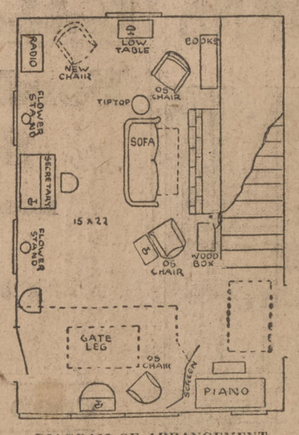


DIAGRAM OF ARRANGEMENT

The fireplace wall in this room is extremely important for several reasons. It dominates the section of the room that is seen first on entering; its background is shared with the staircase—another bold architectural feature; its irregular placement calls for careful balancing of the furniture and the group planned around it should express as much comfort and charm as it is possible to give.

If Mrs. J. will place the bookcase to the left of the chimney she will find that it provides much better balance for the woodwork of the staircase than does the small low table she now has there. If we give this change a moment's thought we see that in a vague way the upright books on tiers of shelves repeat the lines of the staircase and the various bindings give much life and color to this corner, which we are seeking to make interesting.

The photograph illustrates the inviting, homelike effect that can be achieved for the hearth by using at either side a comfortable chair, with a small table, a lamp and accessories. Even now, before the new sofa is bought, a good grouping for the fireplace can be obtained by placing the two easy chairs and small tables beside the hearth in the friendly, easy manner indicated in the photograph.

If there is space above the mantel for a fine picture or mirror, it would show to great advantage there. Urns of old tole or painted tin filled with ivy would be good for the mantel shelf, and before the front windows tall, slender plant stands filled with greens and ivy would suggest more complete furnishing for that wall.

The secretary has been given the second spot of honor . . . the space between the two front windows. A small bench would be nice for the desk seat, but one of the straight backed chairs can be used, if desired. The gateleg table with one leaf open before the long group of windows, an open-arm chair to the left of the lamp, books and a bowl of flowers for the table top would make another pretty picture for the eye to meet on entering the room. The low table can probably go before the end window, the radio as indicated, and there is need for another comfortable chair in the space between the radio and window; a Martha Washington chair with upholstered back and seat and open arms would be a good type for the purpose.

Three small rugs are quite inadequate for such a large floor, and the only purpose they can serve is one of decoration. They may be placed straight at important points in the room, as indicated.

If Mrs. J. decides later to give the floor of this room a more complete covering, our recommendation is that she select one plain room-size rug for the foundation. Then the Orientals can be used over the carpet in the same positions. In such a light room a soft sage or olive-green carpet would provide a good background for the Orientals, and draperies of chintz, cretonne or printed linen. If the walls and woodwork are cream, the chintz may have a cream or pale tan ground and a floral pattern emphasizing greens, reds and blues in harmony with the carpet. There should be a pair of long, full-width overcurtains for each of the three single windows and one pair of curtains with valance for the group of three windows. At the small high window the curtains may end at the sill, and Mrs. J. may allow her own taste to guide her in deciding whether the draperies should hang straight or be caught back softly.

In selecting the new davenport it would be best to get one that is simple and trim of line. A five-foot sofa would be ample, for we do not want the group before the fireplace to seem bulky or to barricade this section of the room. The sofa could be covered in deep ruby-toned wool damask or antique satin, if that color is found in the curtains and is harmonious with the red in the rugs; slip-covers for the easy chair may be of the drapery fabric; the new chair could be upholstered in green brocatelle and a small-patterned fabric in harmonizing colors used for the seats of the straight-backed chairs. The screen recommended for the space between the window group and piano may be a very simple one covered with a good scenic wall paper in green on a buff or ivory ground, and the chair before it should repeat the red of the sofa.

These suggestions seem to cover the problem and to give a pleasant arrangement planned for present pieces as well as those to come. It should serve well to illustrate that many a puzzling room needs but a little understanding, a little determination to turn handicaps into assets that make the scheme extremely pleasing.

Natural Consequences

"WILLIE, have you made an appointment with the dentist? You know you have to go there before you leave for camp," said mother for the dozenth time. She thought that she ought to remind the boy; but that otherwise she should leave the matter entirely in his hands, as she felt he was old enough to attend to it himself. She wanted him to develop into an independent, responsible man.

"Oh, there's plenty of time," came Willie's usual answer. Three days before leaving time, mother again reminded him. This time he actually went to the 'phone. A few minutes later, he ran to his mother in great consternation, saying, "The dentist says the only time he can see me is at 2.30 o'clock to-morrow, and our baseball team plays then." Mother was very sympathetic and refrained from saying, "Well, whose fault is it?" but she pointed out to the boy that unpleasant as this might be, there was no alternative.

This lesson probably did Willie a great deal of good. It is wise to allow our children to suffer the natural consequences of their acts whenever feasible. When Mary loses her skates the second time, she should not receive another pair for quite a period. When Anne breaks her doll in a fit of temper, should it ever be replaced? If Billy continually comes in late for meals perhaps it will help him if nothing but bread and milk are left at the table. If Jack spends all his allowance before the end of the week, and consequently has to do without his "movie," don't you think he will be more careful the following week? These natural punishments usually hurt the parent much more than they do the child. It's very hard to stand by and allow the youngsters to take their medicine.

Sometimes, however, parents apply this principle very unwisely. Johnny argued a good deal about the clothes he should wear. "All right," said his mother one day, in exasperation, "Hereafter you may wear whatever you want."

So Johnny wore nothing but a sweater to school on a freezing day, and caught a very bad cold. This child was not capable of deciding these matters for himself. His mother should have gradually taught him how to use good judgment in this respect; and in the meantime, she should have insisted upon guiding him. We cannot allow children to shoulder responsibilities of which they are not capable, and we have to protect them from suffering that is too severe.

If we use good judgment in applying this principle of natural consequences, we shall find that in many instances, it is the best way of teaching our children needed lessons.

To-Day's Good Manners

By Millicent James

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1930.

IT doesn't do at all to be just a person, not in these very modern days. You may have "lovely manners," you may have a well-bred manner and you may be as good-looking as Hebe and as graceful as a young gazelle, but if you haven't personality, if you haven't that elusive something that spells distinction and sets you apart at once from the crowd, why, you are just "among those present," which is a pity, for you might just as well be somebody.

You cannot, of course, cultivate what you haven't, but you can take account of stock, and out of your qualities and qualifications, and your attributes, physical and mental, make a new combination that shall turn you, just a person, into a personage. This doesn't mean, as many seem to think, making a strained attempt to do everything a bit differently than others do it, or in showing a wayward disregard for customs and conventions or in flaunting idiosyncrasies and exaggerations.

Nor does it mean eccentricities or mannerisms, or a play for notoriety. None of these things has anything to do with good manners to-day or with cultivating the right sort of a distinctive personality. They are just as offensive as ever they were.

You may, however, so direct your novel points of view, your odd ways of doing things, so dramatize them that they are pleasing and diverting and attract attention because of that, not because they are oddities. Originality is bound to be impressive, affectation never, and never was originality more appreciated than now or affectation under a heavier taboo. The latter simply doesn't belong to this age of manners.

To-day's good manners demand that you shall not be just a type. Besides it's wonderful to feel that, in any circumstances, you are you and to make others realize that you are "there." Think of the Mona Lisa. She draws us all like flies to sugar, and why? She is plain, there is no lure in her heavy features, her high cheek bones, her weighted, weary eyelids. Leonardo da Vinci must have felt rather than seen something in her worth painting, something that he succeeds in communicating to us, for he certainly never set out simply to make a good picture of her features.

Nonentities, men and women who are just people, mean nothing at all nowadays. The code demands definiteness. In reality it always has been the woman who was different whose popularity was most marked, not perhaps because she was different, but because she dared to be different. Now it is the order of the day to be different. It is the fashion to be independent. The meek-mannered irritate us, but it is as excessively bad taste as it ever was to be aggressive.

Steer into a middle course. It's safer and likely to be most desirable. Hurrying, scurrying life as it is lived now, the sharp contacts of business life, the new freedom are all calculated to make us lose that feminine charm and dignity which, after all that may be said in protest, are as much assets to-day as they were in the mid-Victorian period. You need have no fear in making them prime requisites in a brand of individuality that you possess or that you covet.

I have seen somewhere the admonition: "Don't be a stock pattern." It is so pat a sentence that I have to repeat it here, and I, too, say "Don't." Be yourself, but be it so well that neither you nor your world can ask any more than that of you. But the trouble is that most of us are afraid to be original. We are not satisfied with what we are, so we are timid about expressing ourselves. Thus we allow ourselves to become copy-cats and amble along willy nilly, being not anything in particular.

But let me assure you that it is distinctly out of date to amble along. If you want to be in the Blue Book line you will take a hint from young Society and realize that it is smart to be up and doing, to be on your own way even if you are not quite certain of your destination, so long as you know that you are headed in the right general direction.

Probably there are fewer dilettantes in the world to-day than ever there were at any time since the world began, all of which falls right in line with the idea of this era to the effect that if you are not distinctive you are merely an also ran, which is about what I have already said in other words.

THINK IT OVER

By Alfalfa Smith

LET me quote: "There is in the heart of even the most depraved human being, though he would not for worlds have others know it, an instinctive feeling that somewhere there is a power that is able to give him what he wants."

Is this INSTINCTIVE FEELING the same as that which prompts a child to reach for a spoon and keep reaching until he gets it? Is it this same INSTINCTIVE FEELING which prompts a man to cry, "God help me!" when his foot is crushed?

Is it this same feeling which prompts the chick to come out of its shell and the birds to go south at the approach of winter?

What IS this instinctive feeling?

Do YOU know?

Do YOU use it?

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken. Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."
Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine.

JUSTICES IN CLASH AT HEARING

and this remark embroiled four justices in a heated discussion:

Judges Battle

Justice Shenk: "I insist this counsel be allowed to examine in his own way."

Justice Preston: "I maintain it's unfair. If I have any rights I want this line of examination closed."

Justice Langdon: "This is a pivotal witness. We have not put up any bars heretofore. I insist we do not put them up now."

Chief Justice Waste: "Objection overruled. The question must be answered."

Saw Billings

The Smith woman, whose testimony that she saw Billings leave the dental office, where she was employed, carrying a suitcase, shortly after 1:52 p. m. (the explosion occurred at 2:06), was finally wrecked in one particular. She said that Billings' departure was made in an automobile after the parade passed her office. Photographs show that the street had been cleared of automobiles when the parade reached that point.

Her testimony given at the trial of Rena Mooney, (Tom's wife) was also shaken. At Rena Mooney's trial, she had described the woman she said joined Mooney and Billings, as they left her office, as being dressed in "a light bolero jacket, lacework hat with cerise ribbon and cerise blouse." Photographs show that Mrs. Mooney had on a long black coat, white blouse and black hat.

Court to Rule

Chief Justice Waste said that at the conclusion of Mrs. Smith's cross-examination the court will rule on the request of John MacDonald, recanting "key witness," to be allowed to return to Baltimore.

Frank P. Walsh, Mooney's attorney will cross-examine Mrs. Smith at tomorrow's opening.

Mooney and Billings have served 13 and 14 years, respectively of life terms meted out upon their conviction as perpetrators of the bombing. Mrs. Mooney was acquitted.

James Wright Called By Death

Funeral services for James Wright, 55, 1121 Roosevelt avenue, who dropped dead at his home yesterday morning, are pending in the hands of the Curry chapel here. Coroner Aubrey Wilson will hold an inquest into the death in the near future.

Wright had been ailing for six weeks, but had continued his work as a watchman at the Standard Oil company. He was a native of England, coming to Richmond in 1904. He was a member of the Eclipse Odd Fellow lodge of Richmond and was employed with the Standard Oil company here for the past 25 years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Elizebth Wright and one son, James Wright, Jr.

Visitor Lauds Harbor Here

That Richmond is gaining a magnificent harbor at a low cost was the statement made before the city council last night by Pearson Buchanan, of Michigan. Buchanan is a boyhood friend of Mayor A. B. Hinkley who introduced him to the council.

Buchanan had just arrived here from a visit in Texas. While at Houston he visited the harbor there and told the council of the work being done, including the dredging of a 19 mile channel.

He declared that Richmond's harbor is costing far less than that of Houston.

EL CERRITO CITY COUNCIL IN CLASH ON TRUCK PURCHASE

On a motion by Councilman Ernest O'Brien the council of El Cerrito at its meeting Monday night instructed City Clerk Mrs. Alice Walker to notify the Fageol Motor Co. that the city would not accept the Fageol truck unless it was delivered through E. C. Corey local automobile dealer and that it was being held for further instructions from the company. Councilmen Ernest O'Brien, Phil A. Lee and Mayor J. R. Beck voted for and Councilmen Peter Larsen and Hans M. Nissen voted against the motion.

According to the motion, at the time the contract was awarded it was stipulated that the city should buy the truck through E. C. Corey but instead the truck has been delivered by the Fageol Motor Co. According to Councilman Phil A. Lee if the city accepts delivery of the truck they may be forced to buy another from E. C. Corey.

Corey when asked by the council why the truck was not delivered by him said that the Fageol Co. had not offered a large enough commission.

Councilman Peter Larsen stated he understood Corey was offered $48 but wanted five per cent and as Corey did not have anything to do with the sale of the truck he was not entitled to the larger commission.

Councilman Hans M. Nissen was instructed to get an estimate on installing electric lights, two berths instead of the cots and whitewashing the walls in the jail cells.

On the recommendation of Fire Commissioner Hans M. Nissen the council ordered that batteries costing $43.50 be purchased for the fire alarm system.

Bids were ordered called for the latter part of this month for the installation of a gasoline pump line, lubricating oil and coil oil and tank and prices on gasoline for the use of the police, fire and street departments.

Councilman Hans M. Nissen, who brought the matter before the council, stated he had been going over the bills and that he was satisfied that the city saved a greater amount of money in the course of a year.

Recommendation of Chief of Police R. R. Cheek that there be no additional diagonal parking on San Pablo avenue as it was much more dangerous than paralell parking was accepted and the council agreed to make no change.

Request of Eugene K. Sturgis in behalf of the Pacific Improvement Bond Co. that the city provide in their new budget for the payment of a street assessment bond of $2468 against the city park in the Berkeley Country Club Terrace tract was referred to City Attorney T. H. DeLap and Street Commissioner Peter Larsen.

Following a meeting of the V. F. W. in the Memorial hall tonight, members will adjourn to the restaurant sponsored by the lodge for refreshments.

The restaurant is located between Twenty-Second and Twenty-Third streets on Macdonald avenue and has been enjoying a brisk trade from the veterans.

TEN FIREMEN INJURED IN BLAZE

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 5—UP—A spectacular fire during which stores of fireworks exploded at intervals and 10 firemen were overcome by smoke and fumes raged for several hours today in the Los Angeles warehouse in the business district of the city.

Olive oil and sugar stored on the third and fourth floors of the warehouse were destroyed at a loss of about $2,000,000.

There was much confusion as firemen dropped inside the building and were carried out to waiting ambulances by their fellows. All were reported recovering at emergency hospitals tonight.

Sky rockets, roman candles and other Fourth of July materials shot out of the windows and flashed by firemen who went to the third and fourth floors with hoses and fire-fighting chemicals.

Crowds gathered outside the building to watch the unscheduled display of pyrotechnics and news and movie camera men risked the firey barrages to take closeup pictures of the colorful scene .

V. F. W. Will Meet Tonight

Commissioner Peter Larsen.

The assessment has been due for about two years but the council has been undecided whether the property is worth the assessment.

On the suggestion of councilman Phil A. Lee, Sturgis will see if his company will make any reduction if the city agrees to pay the assessment.

Report of councilman Peter Larsen that a lot on Everett street between Lincoln and Central avenues and on Richmond street were covered with trash and were unsightly, was referred to Health and Safety Commissioner Phil A. Lee.

Another effort to have the shacks in El Cerrito removed according to the action of the council in referring the matter to City Attorney T. H. De Lap to see what steps can be taken.

Councilman Peter Larsen who made the suggestion stated that they were a fire hazard and a nuisance and should be removed if possible.

On the recommendation of Councilman Ernest O'Brien the council instructed Street Commissioner Peter Larsen to have the weeds in the parkway on the west side of San Pablo removed.
